School Milk Contract Is In Dispute

Findeisen's Dairy in Methuen is supplying milk on a temporary basis to the Andover school department until the School Committee can make some decision on how it will handle its contract with Brox Dairies Inc., now in question because of a Board of Health stop order on school deliveries.

The freshness of the Methuen dairy's half pints for school use has been under study since October, and various tests made by independent laboratories. Public discussion was delayed, however, to give time for conclusive testing and a possible correction.

Town Manager Richard Bowen said Wednesday, however, that the Board of Health was not satisfied with the results of a conference and written warnings to Brox and that it had issued an order Monday to prevent further school deliveries effective Dec. 8.

The manager said, and a Brox spokesman confirmed, that the trouble was not with the quality of milk the dairy put into cartons for school use. It was traced to a technical problem with the bottling equipment used for the small containers which led to rapid bacterial growth in some instances.

Asked by the Townsman for a full disclosure of information on the health board ruling, Chairman Robert A. Walsh replied, "No comment." The town manager confirmed, however, that the firm's Public hearings on the impact of government procurement on small business will be held in Boston today and tomorrow beginning at 10 a.m. in the Federal Building, Courtroom 5, 12th floor. The purpose of the hearings, reported by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) will be to review the current status of government procurement in Massachusetts and New England with respect to its effect upon small business.

Filed for consideration by the legislature next year, a bill by Sen. Beryl W. Cohen (D-Brookline) which would increase the minimum salary for public school teachers from $5,000 to $5,500. A bachelor's minimum of $5,400 has been tentatively established for Andover teachers in 1966.

Operation Morale

The Post Office Department will guarantee pre-Christmas delivery of airmail parcels and cards posted by tomorrow Dec. 10.

If you plan to include the 11 men on our Vietnam mailing list (see Page 18) in your Christmas card mailing, time is limited. Postmaster Francis Mooney said Tuesday that though there had been talk in Washington of flying all Vietnam-bound mail off in time for the holidays, he has had no official word that such special flights will be arranged.

Should you miss the Christmas mailing, how about a New Year's greeting?

MRS. RICHARD H. MOODY

Mrs. Richard H. (Barbara G.) Moody, a member of the School Committee since 1963, has announced her decision to stand for re-election in March.

In reporting her plans, Mrs. Moody issued the following statement:

"After serious and careful consideration with my family and friends, I have decided to offer my qualifications, abilities, interest and time to the voters of Andover as a candidate for re-election to the Andover School Committee in the 1966 March election.

"I feel that my three years on this policy board has provided me with valuable experience and knowledge which will enable me to contribute even more effectively to fulfilling the goal of quality

New License Re-Awarded

Meeting in a special session late Friday afternoon, the Board of Selectmen confirmed its granting of a package store license to John B. White Jr. in a voice vote, 3-2.

Voting 'Yes' were Chairman Philip K. Allen, Roger Collins and Paul W. Cronin.

The repeat action was necessary if the board was to comply with a 1964 amendment to the Open Meeting Law which prohibits secret votes except in certain executive-session situations.

Board, Chamber Split On Parking Solutions

The Planning Board, spokesmen for the Chamber of Commerce and interested businessmen agreed at a public hearing Monday that the parking situation in Andover is critical and downtown parking is a citizens' as well as a merchants' problem. What they could not agree upon was an approach to the solution.

The planners want March town meeting approval for zoning amendments to establish parking space minimums for new or expanding businesses in the central commercial district.

The chamber wants joint consideration of the subject by its parking committee and the planning board, with recommendations for the purchase of municipal parking space the ultimate objective.

It favors what Manager Richard Bowen has already promised, the allocating of all parking meter

ANDOVER CO-OP

How would you Evaluate a percent?

The Andover CO-OP is faced with a communications problem.

We like to think that most people in this vicinity know that Andover has the only consumers' cooperative within many miles, that a cooperative is owned by its consumers (in our case, 3200 of them) and that, in a cooperative, the net earnings (after taxes, etc.) go back to the consumers whose patronage makes those earnings possible.

Our problem arises from the fact that we express that patronage refund as a percent on purchases. For example, last year's refund was 4.3 percent. But percents are not money. They are glamorous. They are unappetizing. You can't eat percents.

Possibly one way to explain the meaning of our refund percent is to say that last year's purchaser of $1000 worth of groceries at the CO-OP received a CASH refund of $43.00 this year.

Perhaps a better way of evaluating our refund percent is to say that what looks like a small percent is in fact the equivalent of two weeks' groceries. And that is a lot of groceries to get at no extra cost to you.

Perhaps, then - at the CO-OP -

Percents are Edible after all funds for either the purchase, maintenance or policing of meters AND the acquisition of parking lots. Bowen said Tuesday, following the hearing, that he is convinced such restricted use of meter funds can eventually lead to parking solutions that will not affect the tax rate.

The chamber sent a written communique from President Austin E. Anderson to the poorly attended hearing, charging that the PB's method of handling the parking congestion would prove an "effective strangulation" of the business community.

A point-by-point rebuttal came from Planning Board Chairman Harold King on Wednesday in defense of his board's belief that further delay on zoning restrictions will just permit the situation to worsen.

At the hearing and in his letter, King tried to persuade the businessmen to agree that legal steps should be taken to hold the problem at bay until broader and more satisfactory answers to the need can be found.

Confusing any long-range discussion at the moment he said, is the fact that the Board of Selectmen has not made a decision on the location of a new town hall.

If the selectmen should decide, he said, he take his board's advice on locating the town hall on the Barnard (now Lally) property in Elm Square, it would leave the Main Street municipal parking lot untouched. This would also free both the present town hall site and the Shorten garage property, which the town is in the process of acquiring, as possible locations for parking lots which could serve the town's most congested business area.

With this kind of municipal parking space available, the board could at some future date see its way clear to a weakening of the restrictions it now sees as necessary, King said.

Offering his own written plan for solving the parking problem was Developer John Davidson. Danton Realty Trust, Davidson already in a bind because of the Planning Board's proposed delays his plans for altering the "Killorin" building at 7 St. This is the location for the John B. White Jr. has just awarded a package store building permit for the property because the law prevents issuing of one for any other building that would not comply with zoning amendments, should be approved in March.

Davidson says the firm, the planners should do it into the cost of meeting spaces at the rear of the parking lot, behind the Shaw. Secondly, he would have acquire the Andover Plaza property on Essex Street, by purchase or by right of domain, to relieve the pressure created by visitors to Dover's Memorial Hall.

His third suggestion, the board look into the cost of acquiring a substantial number of residential lots between Church Street and Punchard Avenue parking lot sites.

During the discussion of purchase of parking spaces, Dudley Fitts, who heads the Dover Co-op's board, said, last thing the people in Andover will spend money on is parking. Pointing out that nothing worked, she put herself out as favoring the Planning Board proposals.

Letter Exchange
In its letter to the board, Chamber charged that all the lot in the central business district would be non-conforming if PB were successful in its regulations.

Not so, said King's letter, about one third of the lots and buildings would conform. The board made down revisions in its suggested parking area requirements so as to entirely shut off the possibility of business district expansion.

King said when this point came up at the hearing Monday.

Property values, says chamber, would be defined cause of the necessity to pay so much open area downtown. replies, "This may be a point, but what about retail in comparison with other areas, if parking is not available."

Chill

If a person feels a chill, he may run to the drug store for medication that will ward off a cold.

In olden days, however, if one said he had a chill, he meant that he had already caught the cold. From the 9th to the 14th century, the Anglo-Saxon word cyle, from the early Old English cele, was the regular English term for cold.

Then, the word dropped from use for about 200 years and was replaced by "cold."

When it returned, "chill" was applied in a restricted sense to designate the feeling of cold within the body.

Flower Judge Club Speaker

A flower show judge told members of the Andover Garden Club Tuesday how involving the whole family in the production of Christmas decorations for the home can enrich the holiday season.

Mrs. Lawrence Steimen, northern district director of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts Inc., entitled her program, "Circle of Christmas". The lecturer is a nationally accredited amateur flower show judge and a member of the New Meadows Garden Club, Topsfield.

Mrs. Ralph Hill, general chairman of the recent "Walk Into Christmas" reported on the holiday sale. Proceeds totaling roughly $800 will be added to the club's allocation for civic beautification and conservation projects.

The name of Mrs. G. W. Hajjar, 506 Prospect St., Methuen, was drawn from chances sold at the sale on a large cone wreath donated by the Junior Garden Club. Money from the chances, $135, will be used to send several children to the Audubon Summer Conservation Camp in Ipswich.

Mrs. Eugene E. Hand and Mrs. S. Leonard Kent served as hostesses for the morning coffee served prior to the meeting.

BOARD RE VOTES LIQUOR LICENSE

onlookers turned out for the short meeting which Town Counsel Frederic S. O'Brien said was called at his request.

Counsel O'Brien expressed his regrets to the board for the fact that he had been unaware of a change in the law invalidating a voting system which was used here five years ago in the granting of a license for Franz Package Store on North Main Street.

Under this system each selectman list three preferences on a written ballot, giving his first choice five points, his second, three points and his third, one point. In the Nov. 30 balloting, Town Clerk Irving Piper counted the votes and reported the decision. The ballots were later destroyed and no record kept of individual action.

In his report to the board, Counsel O'Brien told members he advised a re-vote, in spite of the fact that the Supreme Court has ruled in three separate instances that failure to abide by the Open Meeting Law does NOT invalidate the action of a board.

Questioned on the legality of a meeting on such short notice, the attorney said that news of it posted in town hall 24 hours before the session legalized it. In addition, all applicants were informed, he said.

Prior to the second vote, Selectman Robert Watters asked for a clarification of the ABC regulation which prevents the locating of a package store within a 500 radius of a school or church. He preceded his question with a statement to the effect that being a "re-totaler", he would be satisfied if the board were to grant no new alcoholic beverage licenses. He said he realized, however, that this was not a majority opinion and that he must participate "however distasteful."

In response to questions from both Watters and Selectman William Stewart, O'Brien said that he had checked with the Alcoholic Beverages Commission on the 500 feet point and been told that it was "their practice that if the line passes through a building it does not prevent use of that part more than 500 feet from a school or church," for a package store.

This point was at issue because White intends to put his store at 77 Main St. in what has been known as the Killorin property, though now owned by Danforth Trust. A portion of this land (not that to be used by White within the 500 foot radius, according to town reckoning).

Town Engineer John Avery called in, when Bill Stewart asked he was not satisfied that the location meets the requirements to attest to the accuracy of measurements which were used by the board in determining the validity of various applications.

Pressing for further clarification, Robert Watters questioned Counsel O'Brien about his statement that in his opinion the application of Andover Co-Op was faulty because it did not list the names and addresses of its some 3,000 stockholders. The attorney said he was of his opinion on this point and added that it was his further opinion that if given the law the Co-Op could not issue any stock nor transfer any existing shares.

This mention of the Co-Op was the only reference made to applicants other than White by board members.

The vote came on a motion by Roger Collins that the board grant White the license. Collins followed Selectman Paul Cronin's lead in amending the motion to read "ratify" the action of White but this move was challenged by Watters who asked "How can you ratify a vote that is illegal?"

Counsel replied that if the vote was not illegal, the method by which it was made was.

To eliminate this confusion Chairman Philip K. Allen moved the amendment out of order. Collins restated his original motion.

At this juncture, Atty. Eaton (representing the Yarmbours of Andover Market) mentioned both the validity of the consideration on such short notice and suggested that the board advertise the license.

It was rumored in advance of the meeting that such a move would be made in an attempt to give whose applications were in (particularly with regard to the application) a chance to re-apply for a building that would meet the 500-foot-radius requirement.

Town Counsel O'Brien stated his ruling that the meeting was legal.

At the time of vote Robert Watters said he was casting a negative ballot because he disagreed with O'Brien's statement with regard to ABC precedents cases where portions of buildings which house liquor stores are outside the legal school-zone footage. He stated that he felt ABC would negate the board's action, and he did not want to a party "to another illegal vote."

US Income $10 Billion Weekly

The American economy has established a new landmark in its persistent progress over the past quarter of a century with the attainment of a national income of $10 billion a week.

Along with its great growth in size, there has been a marked shift in the character and composition of the national income, reflecting the changing forces that have been at work in recent years in an economy that has become increasingly payroll- and service-oriented. National income is the total amount of money earned by capital and labor in the process of production. The more commonly used gross national product, which is larger than national income, is the market value of all goods and services produced, and thus represents the expenditure side of the economy.

Magnitude of Expansion

Data compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce in its recent revisions of the figures for the national accounts put the total national income at just over $514 billion for 1964. There has been a further substantial rise since. Last year's total was a fourth higher

NATIONAL INCOME — A CHANGING "PIE"

Trend of shares going to principal components over past three and a half decades than the annual rate in the first quarter of 1961, the start of the present period of record prosperity. It is practically six and one-half times the size of the national income in 1940 when the rise in our economic activity began.

Two significant developments stand out in an analysis of these figures and their changing composition over time. The first of these is the rising proportion of the national income that has been going to the working population. paychecks and increasingly supplements contributed by employers, both Government and private, to protect workers and their dependents against the economic impact of death, retirement, disability and unemployment. This trend is shown in the national income classification of compensation of employees, which consists of wages and salaries and a group of supplements made mainly of Social Security and employment insurance taxes by employers plus contributions to pension and life and health insurance plans for employees.

Growing Roles of Security

The combined compensation last year exceeded $365 billion or $7 billion a week. It broke out to 71 cents of every dollar of the entire national income, has been the prevailing proportion since the turn of the past decade. Comparable ratios in the past ranged from 62 to 68 annually during the Forties, from 64 to 70 cents in the Fifties. Back in 1929 the proportion was only 59 cents. Thus it has been a long-term shift.

The supplements classification has been a big expansionary influence in this uptrend, and in fact has shown a much higher growth rate than the wage and salary element over the years. In 1964 the total of such payments added up to just under $82 billion representing close to a tenth of the wage and salary bill for the year. This was half again as great as the comparable proportion a decade ago and double that of the early postwar period in 1945. Further increases are in prospect looking ahead in view of the tax boosts in the Social Security System, enactment of Medicare, and emphasis on group pension, insurance and other benefits in labor negotiations. Corporate profits before taxes

Morgan announced that the society added in the fiscal year ending June 30 a new sanctuary, Hemlock Pond Wildlife Sanctuary in Weston, a bequest of the late Mrs. Agnes Fitzgerald. Additions to existing sanctuaries, now numbering 22, included sixty acres to Moose Hill Wildlife Sanctuary in Sharon, a bequest of Mrs. Laura S. Fiske; eighty-six acres adjoining Wachusett Meadows Wildlife Sanctuary in Princeton, by purchase; and fifteen acres adjoining Wellfleet Bay Wildlife Sanctuary in Wellfleet and historic Monomoy Lighthouse on Monomoy, both by purchase.

Mrs. Edna Peabody and Mrs. Eloise Hayes, both of Wayland and Miss Dorothy Hinckley of Jamestown, R. I. were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hinckley of Birch Rd.

QUESTIONING SPEAKER NORMAN VIEHMANN at Monday fall meeting of the Andover Education Council are Chairman Joseph Zelinski and Mrs. Robert A. Lloyd, recording secretary. Viehmann, who was chairman for the 1965 Andover Education Conference, spoke about the major points raised at this year's discussion of the future of education.

AEC Meeting Attracts 45

Chairmen were named this week to head committees of the still young Andover Education Council which held its first public meeting of the season Monday.

Announced by Council Chairman Joseph Zelinski, they are: Mrs. Robert E. Monroe, membership; Dr. John G. Webster, public information; Robert Goodwin, educational facilities; Leon Somers, educational concepts; and R. Wayne Long, activities.

Forty-five people heard Dr. Zelinski describe these committees, through which the citizens' group intends to pursue its goal of helping to maintain and excellence in the program of Andover public schools.

He emphasized the importance of the committees, stressing that more than one could various aspects of such as team teaching, for example.

He also stressed the importance of making the council representative and expressed hope that people of many times and occupations will join.

Norman Viehmann, chairman of the 1965 Andover Education Conference, reported to the group the highlights of this public discussion which he said he believed was a broad start toward the for greater communication between townspeople and school personnel. The conference, last month, was sponsored by the Andover School Committee. Theodore Sizer, dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, was speaker.

Here We Go

For the benefit of those who are but casual observers of local affairs, we sound this alert: the 1966 Political Season is upon us.

Its arrival was heralded by the undercover activity associated with the awarding of a package store license last week by the Board of Selectmen.

If there had been no opportunity for the making of political hay, it is doubtful that the town counsel's ignorance of a 1964 amendment to the open meeting law (which outlaws secret votes) would have brought more than a few Tsk Tsk's and a routine re-vote.

Granted, there were disappointed applicants who were eager to grasp at the possibility of a recount that would favor them: or to hope for the nullification of the whole proceeding which would give those whose applications were faulty in some way a chance to correct their errors.

But the real impetus for the exposure of who voted for whom came from those dedicated to the defeat of Selectman Paul W. Cronin in 1966. The aggressive young selectman has acquired some political enemies in his short career. His youth, the tradition-breaking endorsement of his earlier legislative candidacy by the Republican Town Committee, his juggling of the responsibilities of his local post with his job as administrative assistant to Fifth District Congressman Brad Morse — all are strikes against him with an assortment of detractors.

(These reactions to Cronin are not to be construed as an editorial opinion. We will do our commenting on Selectman Cronin and other potential candidates when and if they file for office.)

To be used in the campaign against Cronin is the fact that on numerous occasions in past months the action of the Board of Selectmen on significant issues has been approved by a 3-2 majority: Chairman Allen, Roger Collins and Paul Cronin vs William Stewart and Robert Watters.

The liquor license vote adds to the list.

The recount confirmed what was a foregone conclusion. But it did not bring the preferences of the minority into the record. Nor did it, unfortunately, bring out that the application of Former Selectman Eugene Bernardin would have likely been approved — and by a different majority — had it listed an existing building (an ABC requirement) instead of a construction site for a location.

So beginneth the politicking. It is too bad that John White had to get caught in the crossfire.

Candidates To Be

Speaking of elections, where are the candidates? It may be a bit early for announcements, but it isn't a minute too soon for hopefuls to start getting briefed.

Anybody who is of a mind to get his hat in the 1966 ring should be attending meetings of the board he expects to try for right now.

Again?

Already filed for consideration by the legislature in 1966 is a bill which would raise the minimum salary for public school teachers to $5,500.

Citizens who are irked by the General Court's short sighted practice of voting measures that add to local real estate tax pressures without simultaneously clearing legislation that will help municipalities finance its edicts had better start a flood of protest on this one early in the game.

The Commonwealth has yet to come through with any substantial aid in support of last year's legislation putting the minimum at $5,000!

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman
I see by the Townsman that Andover is suffering from growing pains.

This is an understatement because the many millions of dollars of capital expenditures burdening us during the next decade will make us bleed to the quick.

And it is, in a way, an exaggeration because you assume that there is no alternative to the heavy suffering confronting us.

Maybe there is no way out of this dilemma. But then again, maybe there is. We won't know until we investigate. Some twenty million dollars in new taxes are quite enough to justify a little investigating.

The real issue here is whether Andover's vast open spaces are an asset or a liability to this town.

Now suppose we were to cede ten or more square miles in the western and southern parts of town to adjoining communities, or to a new township. Wouldn't that eliminate the cause of the suffering which our flesh is heir to? I say it would.

Lest you think all this is said in jest, let me remind you that Andover has two perfect precedents for pulling in its borders: in 1847 and again in 1855.

Could it not be that the time is now propitious for the third partition?

To the Editor of the Townsman
There has been quite a bit of publicity lately, concerning a rocket made by myself and my friends, and whether to allow its launching or not.

Our own feeling is, that with assistance from Raytheon, a safe launching site and the 'okay' of several aeronautic companies, which we have, we should be allowed to continue.

WOODCUTTING IN WINTER

Courtesy, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston

Granted, there could be a fire, or an explosion. Yet each year, thousands of people are killed by the gasoline in automobiles. Should General Motors be stopped in their experiments?

People have other arguments: Nobody knows anything about hydrogen and oxygen. How can anyone find out if no one does work on it? It's too dangerous; I won't help you. The very reason we are asking adults to help us is because we feel this is dangerous.

A short time after Fire Chief Henry Hilton denied us a permit to launch our rocket, a group of Methuen boys launched a rocket on state land. True, this rocket had been tested by adults, and was free to be sold. But Hilton had told us that no rockets at all could be launched without a permit. These boys did not have one; directly after it was announced on the front page of the Lawrence paper that we could not launch ours for lack of a permit, they launched their rocket. 'All men are equal before the law.' (?)

There are many arguments on both sides, but my friends and I believe that we shall be able to launch Repulsor (the rocket; not 'Repulsive' as it has been spelled) eventually.

To the Editor of the Townsman
Segregation concerns all of us. It proceeds from conditions existing in the human mind. Therefore, we ought to consider treating the subject as did the Founders as they approached the problem of supernatural religion which is also similarly based. Merely add these words to the Federal Charter: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of segregation or the free exercise thereof."

Fully separated from government's power and not having the privilege of tax exemption as religions still do, all that is bad in segregation shall wither and what is good, if any, shall be retained with freedom thus strengthened. And all that if only because nowadays, few are interested in promoting anything that cannot have government support in some form of tax exemption, use of public funds or credit, or some part of the government's power to coerce.

Moreover, it would make clear that government funds to support such things as pay to parents so that they could send their children to schools which practice segregation, or pay for busing them there would be support of segregation in its entirety however much it was said not to be.

Karl Haartz
60 High Plain Rd.

To the Editor of the Townsman
Last week your excellent editorial "Supply & Demand" contained an extremely pertinent recommendation to our School Committee: That it interest itself in seeing that Andover has a curriculum that makes the most of the latest thinking on how economics can be taught from kindergarten through grade twelve.

Although it may be true that some home economics is taught, this is a far cry from teaching consumer economics — or how to get along in our complicated world of claims and counter-claims in the areas of goods and services of all kinds, budgets, insurance, mortgages, the jungle of installment buying, interest rates, the economics of car-owning and the ability to see beyond the fancy packaging and determine the quality or lack of it — in the package, and so on and on.

All of us are consumers, including America's some 22,500,000 teenagers who, for 1963, it is estimated, spent a total of $11,000,000,000 (yes, $11 billion), an average of nearly $500 each — for goods and services, not including the necessities normally supplied by their families.

If we are prone to think that somewhere, somehow, our youngsters are taught how to compete as consumers, listen to this extract of a plaintive letter that a young man wrote some years after graduation — to his former high school principal. (The Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, Oct. 1960). "I want to know why you and your teachers did not tell and teach about life and the hard, critically practical world. . . ." And he went to recite the many areas of life for which school did not prepare him.

As stated in your editorial, other school systems around the country are beginning to tackle this vital problem and, apparently, are finding ways to fit consumer education into their curricula without disturbance to their standard courses. In fact, it was found that the interjection of consumer education into such courses as English, business, math and social studies created an atmosphere of excitement and meaningfulness that brought fuller interest of the students. Perhaps the outstanding example of this program is that of Lincoln High School, Yonkers, N. Y., which last year had great success. They have published a factual, cartoon-illustrated report which should be of great interest to all those concerned with quality education in Andover.

If Lincoln High School has found the solution to this problem, shouldn't we try it?

T. P. Coates
46 Woburn St.

Editor's Note: The Townsman editorial to which Mr. Coates refers did not specifically deal with consumer education, but rather with the need for early study of basic economics translated into elementary and secondary school language. Consumer education would be, of course, one aspect of such an educational program.

The meeting will be devoted to a Christmas workshop using fresh greens.

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago — December 19

The elegant sleighing during past week brought out about as available turnout in the Tuesday afternoon a large number witnessed some good sleighing on Main Street, but the School ordered the chief of police to stop it. It was a close race between J. H. Richardson's "North" and C. L. Carter's "Scraper" former leading slightly to finish.

A business meeting of the Chewing club will be held Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. Guthrie at 8 o'clock. A dinner will be declared.

Rev. Mr. Small was introduced into the mysteries of sleighing through the ice yesterday. The pickers were taken by the sleigh of three.

How about one hour in the afternoon on Main Street and lovers of fine horses can see their speed? The towns are in this country that have so many fine horses as Andover and fine sleighing makes rare not only for the horses but many who enjoy witnessing racing.

Students Briefed On Bard's Play

The first local experiment in closed circuit instructional television was undertaken by the English and audio-visual departments of Andover Junior High School Friday.

In a fifty minute program, theme of which was Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night", seven members of the English department discussed background on sources, story, construction, character, beauty of phrase and common concerns regarding various interpretations of minor and major parts by prominent actors of the 17th century.

Some 400 pupils viewed the program on closed circuit in school's enrichment period. Three hundred pupils from the school traveled to Lynn Classical School Wednesday to see the performance of the Bard's play.

YWCA Opens Registration For Its Winter Sessions

Registrations for all activities at the Lawrence YWCA are now open for the winter term beginning during the week of Jan. 10. Sixteen activities will be offered adults, including courses in painting, bridge, knitting, cooking, sewing, rug braiding - all taught by experts.

Adults may also join more active groups to learn badminton, golf, ballroom dancing, swimming or basketball. To get in trim, the Y suggests registration in its trimnastics course for special fitness exercises. Workshops on Feb. 7 and Feb. 14 will cover the art of making stained glass and copper enamelling.

Mrs. Raymond Pucci, director of the teen-age Y programs, has planned club meetings to exchange ideas, a Boston trip to see the Ice Capades, debates and a three-day winter sports event. Basketball, fencing, golf or swimming are also available for high school members.

Pre-teen activities at the Y include classes in crafts, swimming and tumbling.

Registrations in each group are open to all Andover residents at the YWCA, 38 Lawrence St., Lawrence, or can be made by mail or phone to that address. A special registration date has been scheduled at Andover Recreation Park on Jan. 13 for bridge classes that will be held there on Thursday mornings and for a five-week course on Effective Club Work. Interested women may also sign at the "Y" for these classes.

Massachusetts annually records more than 2.8 million visitor-days at state parks.

MRS. MARTIN YALE FISHER
(Graber)

Fisher - Loew

Adrienne Carol Loew and Martin Y. Fisher were married Nov. 21 by Rabbi Harry Roth at Temple Emanuel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Loew, 211 Greenwood Rd., and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher, of Springfield.

Mr. Loew gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white peau de soie gown with pearl and crystal-beaded Alencon lace appliques and a chapel train. A silk illusion veil fell from her pearl tiara, and she carried a family Bible covered with a white orchid and a cascade of stephanotis and ivy.

As her sister's only attendant, Miss Gail Loew wore a rosecrepe gown styled with Empire lines and a satin overskirt which matched her headpiece of bow and veil. Her old-fashioned bouquet was of white mums and red roses.

The bride's mother was dressed in an ice-blue silk sheath gown with bodice beaded in pearls and crystals, and Mrs. Fisher a Copenhagen blue sheath beaded overblouse. Both wore orchid wristlets.

Best man for the ceremony was Arthur Nozlk, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Hartford. The bride's brother, Mr. Loew, was an usher along with Gerald Solomon of Springfield, James Cummings and Hilbert of Westfield.

Mrs. Loew was graduated from Andover High School and International College and was a teacher for retarded children. Her husband is now at Springfield College.

They came to 12-1/2 cents of every dollar of national income last year, somewhat higher than the annual proportion since 1960 but below that of the majority of years in the previous two decades. Producers' income (unincorporated business plus farm) shows a long-term down-trend in its share of the national income, while that of rental income of persons and net interest combined has edged up since the mid-Forties after a previous sharp decline.

As a consequence of these trends, three American workers now earn their livelihood in the service industries for every two persons employed at producing goods. Up to a decade and a half ago goods production was the major source of jobs in the economy. Indicative of the extent of the turnaround, the latest figures show over 11 million more persons with a job in the services than in producing goods. Along

Sweetmeat Dish A Wedgwood Design

(Prepared for the Townsman with the cooperation of the historical society's curator, Mrs.
Barbara Sessions.)

Among treasures exhibited at the Andover Historical Society's Amos Blanchard House is this unique covered sweetmeat dish of Wedgwood "Queen's Ware." Twice exhibited outside Andover and frequently mentioned in books and articles on 18th Century china, the dish was most recently shown in Pawtucket, R.I., at the Old Slater Mill in an exhibition entitled "Wedgwood in New England."

The dish is of particular local interest because of its having been used in the historic Benjamin Abbot house on Andover St. Mrs. Charles W. Ward, who gave it to the historical society in 1949, acquired it from a member of the Abbot family.

One may marvel at the survival through so many years of such a delicate piece, doubtless brought to New England in an 18th Century sailing vessel. It has four compartments and is nine inches in diameter. The rim and cover are pierced in an openwork design and topped with a rose finial. The dish is creamy white - not the blue so often associated with Wedgwood.

This "cream ware" was one of the early successes of Josiah Wedgwood, extremely versatile the creation of his many successes. One set, made in 1765, Queen Charlotte, was so distinct that the Queen gave its maker the mission to call himself "Porcelain to Her Majesty," a title he assumed in 1765. Hence the name Queen's Ware.

MILK CONTRACT IS FRESH ISSUE

license to make school milk deliveries has been revoked.
Bowen emphasized that this action should not be construed as a reflection on the quality of milk delivered by Brox to its home consumers. "As far as the board of health is concerned, Brox home delivery milk meets all standards," he said. The manager indicated that tests made support this position.

A spokesman for the dairy said
Wednesday that the health board had "jumped the gun" with its decision to act. He asserted that the tainted milk could be attributed to a malfunction in a filling machine which has been corrected in the period between the town's initial complaint and now.

Asked if half pints packaged his dairy today would be a standard, the dairyman said
"Yes." He added that he could up this statement with documents proof from independent laboratories.

The School Committee will decide at its meeting tonight whether to advertise for a new bid and Brox Dairy has indicated it will submit a bid if such an is taken.

ceived the school department contract two years ago. Until that

VA Seeking Income Data

More than 47,000 nonservice connected VA pension recipients in Massachusetts received with their Nov. 30 pension checks a tabulating card on which to report their income.

On these cards beneficiaries must report all income received during 1965 and that expected in 1966. Income means everything including Social Security payments except, of course, the VA pension payment themselves.

The law requires the VA to use these reports to determine continued eligibility of nonservice-connected disabled veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans (except service-connected widows and children) to receive VA pensions and in some cases to make adjustments on the basis of increased or decreased outside income.

These cards carry the words "please do not mutilate." It is important that these instructions be followed. Pensioners are requested to fill in all blanks on the card wherever applicable and to be sure to sign the card before returning it to the Veterans Administration.

Prompt and accurate reporting can prevent any hold-up in pension payments. These cards must be received by the VA prior to Jan. 31, 1966.

Coming Events

December

- 9 Red-yarns, Ballardvale branch, 10-10:45 a.m.
- 11 Story hour, Children's room, 10 a.m.
- 14 Bunnies group, Children's room, 10-10:45 a.m.
- Great Books discussion group, Children's room, 7:30 p.m.
- 16 Blue-yarns group, Ballardvale branch, 10-10:45 a.m.

Littlest Listeners

Christmas stories are being planned for Littlest Listeners. Each of the four groups will have an appropriate program on its meeting day between now and Christmas Day itself. The Bunnies will have their Christmas program on Dec. 14 in the Children's room. At the Ballardvale branch, the Blue-yarn group will hear special stories on Dec. 16, while the Red-yarn group at the branch will be scheduled for Dec. 23. The Coons have their Christmas program in the Children's room on December 21st.

Happiness for LL's at this time of year is giggles and secrecy. Mothers will have to wait and find out.

Story Hour

The perennial favorite, horses, provides the theme for stories. Mrs. Margaret Berry will tell on Saturday, Dec. 11 at 10 o'clock. She is programming Kappa's tug of war, the White Mustang, and Little Prince Ivan.

Automation Seminar

Miss Miriam Putnam, librarian, attends the library seminar on automation in New Bedford today after two days of sessions sponsored by the Bedford Free Public Library. Over 100 librarians in the New England area were invited to observe what can be done in library procedures with the automated equipment. The speaker was Mrs. Mary E. Librarian of Decatur, Ill. Public Library whose topic was "The Human Side of Library Automation."

Building News

First you make a smooth surface of plywood. Then draw a design in blue. Next you have metal pans from the Precision Center in Boston which you glue to the plywood along the blue lines. Pans all in place? All right, concrete over the lot and sets, you have a floor and walls in the new stack area at Memorial Hall Library. Joseph F. Carson, charge of construction, expects that the resulting archaic produces the needed strength without the weight of a solid concrete floor.

House Buying Etc.

A practical book on house buying is Lila Perl's THE WAY YOU WANT. Other new books: SUCCESS WITH HOUSE PLANNING - Smith (choice and daily); HEREDITY AND HUMAN LIFE - Carson (new information); ISLES OF SHOALS IN LONG ISLAND - Rudledge; THE GUIDE TO MEXICO - Terry; WORLDS OF ROBERT E. SMITH - Brown; ANATOMY OF A PHENOMENON - Vallee (fascinating objects in space).

Great Books

The Great Books discussion group last week decided to take their holiday break in December by omitting additional meetings this month. The next discussion will take place on January 1, 1966. At that time the topic will be Rabelais' GARGANTUA AND PANTAGRUEL, Book I.

Additional authors and works scheduled for program the coming year are: INSTANT (selections) by John Calvin; LEAR, Shakespeare; NOVUM GANUM, Book I, Francis Bacon; John Locke's OF CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

These are probably books every one has meant to read, and you have been intending to get around to them, why not start the New Year and join the Great Books group where you will be able to discuss these and other with like-minded people?

CHARLES McCULLOM MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Charles O. McCullom, 10-15 derson Ave., recently marked his 25th service anniversary at Abbott Laboratories. He has been a sales representative in that company throughout his career with the Chicago company.

A graduate of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and the president of its alumni association, McCullom is associated with Andover Servicemen's Association, a former member and chairman of the Andover board of health, and past president of the Andover Booster Assn.

Picture Of A Planned Room

Michael J. Sullivan, Inc. located at 226 Essex Street in Lawrence, is a furniture store that has been serving Andover homeowners for generations. Established 78 years ago by Michael J. Sullivan, Sullivan furniture has grown and expanded tremendously so that it now enjoys the fine reputation of being Essex county's leading furniture store.

At Sullivan's you'll find a huge assortment of beautiful furniture of all kinds by Conant-Ball, Kroehler, Valentine, and Shaw. Also, in order to provide customers with a complete home furnishing service, Sullivan's carries the best in carpeting and broadloom made by Lee and Karastan.

Christmas shopping time is here, Sullivan's furniture invites you to come in and see its Home Planner's shop on the second floor. Here, you'll find that each model room is beautifully furnished and decorated especially for Christmas. And while you're there, why not browse around Sullivan's fine gift shop. So, when you're doing your Christmas shopping this week or next, drop into Sullivan furniture to view the Christmas decorations and the special Home Planner's Shop upstairs as well as the huge selection of fine furniture displayed throughout the store. For your convenience, Sullivan's will be opened Tuesdays and Fridays until 9.

Ex-Addicts Will Speak

Two reformed drug addicts were at one time members of Boston gangs will tell their story at a special meeting at Andover Baptist Church Sunday at 7 p.m. They will also show the film "Teen Revolt" which should be of equal interest to youths and adults.

The program is provided by Teen-Challenge, an organization which reaches and rehabilitates young people from a life in gangs and from a life of narcotics, drinking, gambling, alcoholism and other problems with the law.

Begun in Brooklyn a few years ago by a young country minister, Rev. David Wilkerson, the organization now has centers in major cities, including Boston. These centers provide a place for youths who have problems of the kind to live, work, and be rehabilitated. The story of this work is told in the book, "The Cross and the Switchblade" by David Wilkerson.

The public of all faiths is invited to attend this free meeting.

DOWN THE YEARS

One just like it, or perhaps a little better, will be sponsored by the 19 at Crystal Ballroom with Lester Utley again taking the reins. Public opinion is an amazing thing. A year ago this time most everybody was determined to let America out of the war; it was our war - we had nothing to do with it. Today the trend is just the opposite and more and more people just assume that we're going to get into it, anyway.

New building permits for November totalled $357,700.

Henry G. Holt Jr., 9 Canterbury St., has announced his candidacy for the school committee.

The Rev. Roy E. Nelson, pastor of the Baptist Church at Salem, will leave Andover in the early in 1956 to assume the pastorate of the Park Street Baptist church in Framingham.

Atty. Walter E. Mondale, 6 Florence St., will be a candidate for the school committee at the town election next March. Also running, Clarence Pope, an assistant professor at Lowell Technical Institute and resident of Beacon St.

There is currently underway move to have Gov. Christian Herter run for the Presidency. Gov. Herter would make a good president, of that we are certain. His administration in this regard has been a model of common sense, efficiency and public service.

Miss Merib Sweet of Andover appeared with University of Massachusetts in a television show last month over a Boston channel.

Docket No. 285499

Essex, ss.

To GENEVIEVE E. HARTIGAN of Andover in said County, and to her heirs apparent or presumptive.

A petition has been presented to said Court alleging that said GENEVIEVE E. HARTIGAN has become incapacitated by reason of mental weakness and physical incapacity to properly care for her property and praying that GENEVIEVE E. GREEN of Andover in the County of Essex or some other suitable person, be appointed conservator of her property.

If you desire to object thereto, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Salem before ten o'clock in the forenoon on the twentieth day of December, 1965, the return day of this citation.

Atty. Walter E. Mondale, 6 Florence St., will be a candidate for the school committee at the town election next March. Also running, Clarence Pope, an assistant professor at Lowell Technical Institute and resident of Beacon St.

There is currently underway move to have Gov. Christian Herter run for the Presidency. Gov. Herter would make a good president, of that we are certain. His administration in this regard has been a model of common sense, efficiency and public service.

Miss Merib Sweet of Andover appeared with University of Massachusetts in a television show last month over a Boston channel.

CHURCH MEMBERS WRITE CONGRESS

Members of West Parish Congregational Church have been asked to write their Congressional representatives to express their concern for the hungry people of the world.

The suggestion is timed to coincide with the Johnson administration's consideration of what form U. S. aid to the under fed should take in the future. Legislation which has provided for the use of this nation's agricultural surplus may be replaced by financial aid to expand agricultural development in poor countries.

Voke School Chairman Receives Service Award

Fred S. Tarbox, chairman of the board for the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational & Technical High School, received the Lawrence Exchange Club's Book of Golden Deeds Award at a banquet held Wednesday at Yankee Doodle Restaurant.

The award was given in recognition of Tarbox's service to the Greater Lawrence Community. The Andover resident has been particularly active since 1958 in encouraging planning for and helping to establish the new vocational high school, opened this fall for its first term. During this period he has been Andover's spokesman on the school district committee.

Speaking at the presentation dinner was William M. Willits of Andover who is assistant superintendent at Western Electric Co.'s Merrimack Valley Works.

With Western since 1942 and at the North Andover plant since 1952, Willits is an author, lecturer and a member of the faculty of the Industrial Management Center, Lake Placid, N. Y.

His topic was "Communications - Prologue for Tomorrow."

Tarbox is a native of Biddeford, Maine and a graduate of the University of Maine. For the past 13 years he has been executive vice president of J. H. Horne & Sons Co., Lawrence.

FRED S. TARBOX

He is a member of Penobscot Masonic Lodge, Dexter, Maine and is a past deacon of West Parish Congregational Church and a former Cub Scout leader. He is currently assistant leader for Boy Scout Troop 77.

On the committee for the awards dinner were Robert S. Fraser, chairman, and Ernest D. Stansfield, both of Andover, and Atty. John P. Ford, Atty. Daniel J. Leonard, George J. Daher and Malcolm Sandler.

Zip Codes Simplified

As part of a nation-wide program to streamline the ZIP Code system, Postmaster Francis J. Mooney announced today that effective Jan. 15 a single five-digit ZIP Code number will serve the entire community of Andover.

Everyone in Andover will have the same ZIP Code number, which is 01810.

Postmaster Mooney, said Andover is one of 643 cities in which two or more ZIP Codes have been merged into a single ZIP Code number in order to simplify the system.

"Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has instructed us to do all we possibly can to make the transition process easier for the public," Mooney said.

"We are therefore delaying the effective date until Jan. 15 in order to avoid confusion during the Christmas mailing season.

"Also, mail users may continue to use their old ZIP Code number on their stationery and other printed mailing equipment until the present supply is exhausted.

"Business firms that have already ZIP Coded their files will not be required to update them, but can make the transition to the single Code as they make routine changes for other purposes.

"I am also sending out individual notices to every postal customer in Andover so that everyone will be informed of the change in his ZIP Code address."

Mill Denies He Will Run

Victor Mill Jr., president of Lawrence Pumps Inc., told the Townsman Wednesday that reports he will seek the single selectman's seat available in March are false.

Mill, who acted as town manager in two interim periods since the adoption of the manager charter, did say that it was true he had been asked to run. He said also that after his first refusal, he received a petition from those interested in his candidacy.

The industrialist said: "I won't be available, much as I'd like to be. I can't possibly see my way clear to run."

Mill made one try for the board some years ago, and he has served on both the Finance Committee and the Board of Public Works.

• Eight possible spots for development as municipal parking facilities have been suggested to the Planning Board by Consultant Gordon Brigham. Discussion of the parking problem continues as the board moves toward planned town meeting action on zoning bylaw amendments which would establish mid-town parking standards.

• The School Committee has approved circulation of current events filmstrips in grades four through 12 of the public schools on an eight-week trial basis. The film program is a project of the Eagle-Tribune Publishing Co. and is aimed at promoting newspaper reading.

• The school department is investigating the cost of having its annual report commercially printed and also looking into what it would cost to do the job on the town's offset printing equipment.

• A sum of $500 was voted by the School Committee last week to cover the expense of preparation and typing of the school department's rules and regulations.

• West School cafeteria will be equipped with a new refrigerator, ordered from United Restaurant Supply, Lowell. The price: $625.

• The Merrimack Valley Club Blood Bank of the Western Electric Co. contributed 383 pints of blood on two consecutive blood donor days held at the North Andover plant. Employees participating in the Blood Bank program are assured that they and their families will receive blood whenever and whenever needed at any time during the year following contribution.
